

Z PROFILE

Z profiles can be preferred as purlin, belt and facade profiles as auxiliary products in heavy steel industrial structures exposed to wind, snow, natural conditions and extreme loads. It is used as an auxiliary element in non-industrial steel structures such as light steel structures, warehouses, hangars and animal shelters.

Z profile construction, steel structure, light steel structure etc. It is produced in different sizes and forms used in the installation of sub-constructions in buildings, with cutting-edge technology production lines, in requested dimensions and axis drilling, burr-free cutting, ink-jet marking on profiles, special packaging for individuals and institutions, and in requested sizes and dimensions.

Section Names		Production Range
X	Top Edge Width	*
Y	Height	*
Z	Bottom Edge Width	*
C	Thickness	*

